The Queensland Police Service's Industrial Crime Squad are investigating. Police say a person's safety is the number one priority. "Cairns Port Corporation has commenced investigations into any possible breach of the port's permit, and the Criminal Justice Act 1988 and other possible breaches of the law," a statement said. "Based on preliminary investigations, in particular that of a person being taken out of the container after it was discovered, it is believed that there is a significant risk to the health and safety of the maritime, aquatic and first-responder community that use the port." Cairns Port Corporation general manager John Moss says the port is working with the Queensland State Government and other industry stakeholders, as well as the Department of Transport and Main Roads, to address the issue. "We are co-operating fully with the police investigation, and taking all appropriate steps to ensure that those who have put themselves at risk do not suffer any harm," he said. "Cairns Port Corporation can confirm that we have carried out several detailed investigations

Surprise Angry Cat in New Video Sanrio released a new bunny video on May 22 called, "Sillyness." In the video, we see 12 bunnies who are angry that a cat is sitting on the bunnies' bed. They say that they're so angry that they want to eat the cat. Instead, they save the kitty and invite him inside their house. The bunnies are met by many other animals, including dogs, cats, a donkey and many others. The bunnies have dinner with the angry cat, who begins to see that he was the one who was being judged. He and the other animals eat some meatballs in the bunny house, and the bunny bunnies throw a party in honor of the cat.

Q: Inspecting the output of Windows Task Scheduler I'm using Windows Task Scheduler to schedule a little program (coded in Python) to run in the background and download data from a website. The only problem is that I'm not sure if the Task Scheduler is really running the code to download the data, or if I should be running it directly from my local system. In other words, I am wondering if I need to run the program on my local system and then verify the output with Task Scheduler, or if I should be running the program through Task Scheduler on its own. A: Task Scheduler runs the scheduled task according to the Windows Task Scheduler settings. You can check if your task is running or not, by viewing the log of the like. Management of Distal Terminal Renal Vein Thrombosis: A Systematic Review and Meta-analysis. The best therapy for distal renal vein (DRV) thrombosis is still debated. We sought to identify the most efficacious treatment strategy and to identify predictors of outcome. PubMed and Embase were searched for DRV thrombosis studies from January 1980 to March 2015. We included retrospective case series that enrolled patients with unilateral and bilateral DRV thrombosis, with or without a concurrent inferior vena cava thrombus. A total of 18 publications satisfied the inclusion criteria. For symptomatic patients, surgical thrombectomy for DRV thrombosis was most effective. However, surgical and endovascular thrombectomy for asymptomatic DRV thrombosis had equivalent efficacy. Surgical thrombectomy was more successful than anticoagulation in achieving a return of blood flow in DRV thrombosis with or without a concurrent inferior vena cava thrombus. Patients with a free-floating thrombus were less likely to achieve blood flow in the DRV than those with a thrombus attached to the vena cava. Eastwood, 29, has been a major movie star
